STORY SUMMARY

MARK! The Herald Angel follows Mark, a small angelic newspaper reporter for the Eternal Herald — Paradise City's journal of record — who is assigned to cover the birth of Christ. Inspired by the carol “Hark! The Herald Angels Sing,” the story blends journalistic wit, genuine theological weight, and a signature cinematic image: when angels are present on Earth, the world appears frozen and motionless to them — people, animals, and every living thing utterly still — while the angels move freely and unnoticed through the paused world of first-century Bethlehem. An animated adaptation is currently in early development.
